

Matthew Steven Coop

March 31, 2023

Matthew Steven Coop, 55, passed away in Jacksonville, Florida.

Matthew grew up in Iowa and Florida, where he enjoyed his youth on either a surfboard, a mountain bike, or with a fishing pole in his hand.

Matthew went to college at the University of Florida in Gainesville, actively involved in his fraternity (SAE) and being a "loyal GATOR."

He was successful in his career as a Mortgage Loan Officer, and was known for his empathic approach with customers, attention to detail, positive attitude and that dazzling "Coop Smile."

His mountain biking skills continued to improve and he tackled the deserts of Las Vegas, Nevada and pristine mountains of Southern Utah.

Everyone that knew Matthew was aware that being a father was his most important role in life and his "purpose."

Matthew is survived by his wife, Amy Hyams Coop; his daughters, Lily, Chloe, his step-daughter Sydney and their mother, Jennifer Dorsey. He is also survived by his step-mother, Diane Coop and his brother and sister-in-law, Mike and Denise Coop, as well as the entire Masters' family. There is an endless list of extended family, friends and colleagues who will certainly miss him.

Matthew was preceded in death by his parents, Linda Masters and Richard Coop and his step-father, Bruno Masters.

The entire Coop family thanks everyone who has shown love and support during this difficult time. Keep the fond memories of Matt in your heart and mind. And know, without a doubt, he's on a bike, go-pro on his head and witnessed the birth of his grandson Maverick Matthew Coop and saw the Florida Gators beat the Houston Cougars. "Come on Gators. Let's Get Up and Go."

Tribute Wall

“ I truly miss Matt everyday. He was the greatest dad to my girls anyone could ask for. You are missed daily , we love you! ”

Jennifer Coop - May 28, 2025 at 02:56 PM